Let's Talk!

Helping Children with Disabilities Learn What All Children Learn

Recently there has been a renewed focus on helping students with disabilities learn what all children are learning. This workshop will help parents understand the concepts so they can participate more effectively in IEP planning.

The 'Let's Talk' Mini-Fair has been organized to bring families together to make connections with other families, take advantage of outside agencies and organizations, and to attend a presentation that will help you make informed decisions about your child. Staff or families of any of the local area school districts are also invited to attend.
